For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, & throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Eldridge, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affection of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for croup, whooping cough, & lung diseases in the house. Mrs. L. E. Hermann, 167 Mercer St., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stilker, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckinridge, Breslau, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

Be Warned

In time, Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When the kidneys are healthy, the body is a perfect, these organs rule the blood to its needed constituents, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albu-minuria, or

is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. J. W. Weld, Forest Hill St., Jumlaie Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complete recovery of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I now feel like a new person, as well and strong as ever." W. M. McLeish, 46 State St., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLeish, cor. Bridge and Third Sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much exhausted; but by using my appetite and digestive improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

MR. SAUTER'S MADSTONE
WITH IT HE TREATS ONE HUNDRED PERSONS A YEAR.

His Charge for Using It $5 to $25—Some Stories of Its Cures—A Man Who Regards All Deaths from Dog Bites Unnecessary—Other Madstones.

OVER IND., Jan. 11.—One of the five madstones in the United States is owned by Charles J. Sauter, of this town. Mr. Sauter came into possession of the same thirty years ago, when he lived across the line in Illinois. He knew a wandering Frenchman who had failed to make a living and who was always about the house. The Frenchman produced the stone, described its wonderful properties to him. The Frenchman wanted $300 for it, but Sauter could not raise the money. After an unsuccessful attempt to form a stock company, Sauter took all the money he had, about $100, and offered it to the Frenchman, who accepted the sum.

Once in possession of the prize Sauter managed to get himself bitten by a dog in short order, and on applying the stone was doing to notice that it stuck to the wound. As he has never had any symptoms of hydrophobia he of course has confidence in the stone.

During the thirty years that the stone has been in Mr. Sauter's possession hundreds of people have had it applied to their wounds, and only one has died, but the other cases are not so serious as to cause hydrophobia. The man came here full of hydrophobia, refused to keep the stone on, continued drinking, and finally died of a disease which was trying to kill him. Sauter claims that the stone has been a paying one, for it is visited by more than one hundred people a year, and he charges them all the same for five dollars a twenty-fourth dollar for the use of the stone. He says that it is a good cure, and that it has been a success in every case.

Using the stone for dog bites is not done in warm water for a few moments, and then applied to the wound, the latter being made to bleed lightly. Then, if there is any poison in the system, the stone immediately adheres, and will continue to do so until the poison is exhausted. The stone is then removed, and the skin is washed with warm water for a few minutes, when it will be covered with a white scum, which Sauter claims is the poison that it has extracted. This is continued as long as the stone will stick.

Mr. Sauter claims that it is possible to remove all the poison from the skin, but it is believed that the poison has been absorbed, and the patient is discharged as cured. If the stone refuses to stick to the skin in the first place then it is a sign that there is no poison in the body, and the charge is but $5. If several applications are necessary to remove all the poison the charge runs as high as $25. Mr. Sauter keeps a complete record in his book, and the average loss is not more than 10 per cent. of those that the stone sticks to.

He has never had a case of hydrophobia, the man on the outside knew nothing about it, and the physician who made out the bill for the treatment of the man who had great fear in him was mighty indignant when he learned that the man had been treated by a Frenchman.

so shattered that he finally had a spear or two, and, though the doctor said it was no hydrophobia, the man on the outside knew

LAST Saturday was a hard one on river men. Some of the crew of the St. Lawrence are reported to have had their hands and ears badly frozen.

Don't forget that Jones & Co. are selling good Ohio River coal at 7 cents per bushel. The cut in the price was made Saturday. See ad. elsewhere.

Our train that left here Saturday morning is the only one, it is reported, that made a run in this State that day. All roads were blocked by the snow.

The street car company had to succumb to the wind and the snow last Saturday morning, and take off the cars. An effort is being made to-day to clear the track.

We've been wondering whether the telegraph exchanges had a good hollering trade.

The Monumental Fair closed last Saturday night. The large pyramidal cake was awarded to Miss Lizzie Greenwood, as the most beautiful contestant, by a very decided majority.

The new baggage coach that was lately put on this end of the Kentucky Central is, reported to have been destroyed by fire near Paris last Saturday night, or sometime yesterday. It caught fire accidentally while the train was lying in a snowdrift.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral is recommended by physicians of the greatest eminence on both sides of the Atlantic as the most reliable remedy for colds and coughs, and all pulmonary disorders. It affords prompt relief in every case. No family should be without it.

The protracted meeting will begin at the M. E. Church, South, to-night. Rev. H. C. Morrison will preach if he arrives in time. He recently held a meeting at Lexington that resulted in about ninety additions to the church. The Lexington Press spoke of him as one of the best preachers in the State for his age. The public is cordially invited to hear him.

From the Corporal.

From the Marine Barracks, Pensacola, Florida, Corporal Ben. Berger writes of the benefits of Brown's Iron Bitters in that malarious region. He says: "I have used several bottles and must say I am greatly benefited by using it. Several of my comrades use Brown's Iron Bitters, and you may rest assured they all think it is the greatest thing on earth." This kind of testimony comes from all quarters concerning Brown's Iron Bitters—the best tonic.

An Old Paper.

Mr. Ben. E. Morgan, of this county, brought to this office a copy of the Ulster County (New York) Gazette, published at Kingston and dated January 4, 1800—eighty-five years ago. It is in mourning for General George Washington, and contains the message of President John Adams, announcing the melancholy event of Washington's death to the Senate of the United States. The paper is well preserved. It has been in the Morgan family since it was issued. Mr. Morgan obtained it from his mother, Mrs. Mary Morgan, in Mason County, a few days ago. She got it from her mother fifty-four years ago—Mr. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat.

Boreal Blasts.

The snow storm and cold wave which swept over this section of the country last Friday were about as severe as we have had for some time. Trains and steamboats had to bow in submission to the "storm king" and our city for the first time in years has been almost entirely shut off from the "outside world" since the cold wave struck us. The Kentucky Central was unable to run any through trains Saturday. The passenger train that left here at 6 o'clock a. m., that day, had succeeded in getting as far as Myer's Station at 4 o'clock that afternoon. The train due here that evening at 8 o'clock ran into a snow drift a short distance this side of Paris. By the combined efforts of three or four locomotives it was finally pulled out yesterday evening and arrived here at a late hour last night. It left on regular time this morning. Travelers retarded in all directions by the heavy snow drifts. The Rectorville bus came in all right Saturday morning, but on the return trip that afternoon the driver found the snow so badly drifted in the road that he abandoned the trip and the passengers returned to this city. A gentleman who came in from Tolosa yesterday stated that he found the snow drifted twenty and twenty-five feet deep many places along the road, and that it would probably be several days before travel could be resumed. News from some other sections of the county reported all roads running North and South blocked by the snow drifts.

Travel on the river was entirely suspended Saturday on account of the severe wind and cold weather. The Handy No 2 and Hattie Brown did not venture out until the St. L. went as far as up that morning as Higginson's, but went up to a constant stimulus to the pupils, and thus of great advantage.

Miss Lillie Gray is teaching this school.

She takes the "Educational Standard" and "School Journal" and Miss Gray is a very attractive school, and the children are very orderly and polite in their deportment. She writes: "I have my spelling classes write their lesson once a day, and have much of the work done in class. I also have a class to read and review every few weeks which I require to be in writing." Teachers will find that a monthly written review will be a constant stimulus to the pupils, and thus of great advantage.

There is no public school house in Washington, and the teacher has been compelled to furnish the house and furniture at her own cost, to do most sincerely hope that the school will be next year in a public school house. The teacher says: "The patrons and trustees are not attached to the interest of the public school."

Miss Willa Burdette is teaching here. She has had Currin's "Common School Education" for the year, and from her work as I saw it, I would say she profited from its suggestions.

The teacher and discipline is first-class, and the school is doing well as regards the good behavior of the pupils.

BATTLE WITH A MANIAC

AN OFFICER SUBDUES A MURDEROUSLY INCLINED MADMAN.

Michael O'Neill About to Execute His Wife and Daughter—A Bullet Sent Crashing Into His Head—Before the Courts—Not Guilty—Jailed.

New York, Jan. 11.—An aged man, whose gray locks were powdered with gold, staggered into the Butler street court room in Brooklyn. About his face was strapped a bandage saturated with blood. His eyes gleamed like two balls of fire, and his matted hair and face were smeared with gore. The prisoner gave his name as Michael O'Neill, aged fifty-two years. He said he was a laborer by occupation and formerly resided at 136 Flatbush street. Recently he had not lived with his wife and two daughters but had been an inmate of the Flatbush Asylum for the Insane for six months. Mary O'Neill, one of the daughters, was with the prisoner, and she told the court he had been shot in the head and accused her father of assault in the second degree. She told Justice Messer that six months ago O'Neill had exhibited such violent symptoms of insanity that he was admitted to the asylum in the autumn at Flatbush. They were ignorant of his release from that institution until he suddenly made his appearance at the door of his apartment and demanded admittance. The policeman who responded to his call, and the door was locked in his face. Several times during the evening he attempted to force an entrance, but was unsuccessful, however.

At last the policeman, still knocked at the door of the apartments occupied by the family. Under the impression that the deranged father had long ago departed, said that a neighbor had called, Catherine, a daughter, who opened the door and asked: "Who is there?" "Me," was the reply, so similitude as to resemble the voice of a friend of the family. No sooner had the door been opened than O'Neill, with terrible yell, bounded into the room. In an instant, whipped a revolver from his pocket and leveled it at his daughter. With a scream of horror she rushed from the room and sought refuge from the madman in the room next door, the chamber where she and her mother were accustomed to sleep. She jumped behind the bed and pulled the clothing over her, and the madman, who had followed her, pulled the sheet over her head. His hands were so unsteady that the sheets flew wide of their mark and lodged in the wall. The reports of the pistol and the screams of the terrified wife and daughter aroused the neighbors, and they rushed into the room to ascertain the cause of the excitement. Officers Murphy and Kennedy, of the Eleventh precinct, were among those who first arrived upon the scene. They found the madman lying on the floor of O'Neill's apartment. By the first of the revolver the policemen discovered the figure of a man in one corner of the room. They charged upon the fellow with drawn clubs and pistols. Before reaching him, however, there was another flash, and a bullet whizzed by their heads. At the same time the lunatic yelled.

"Get out of this or I'll blow your brains out!"

Officer Kennedy hastily drew his revolver and fired at the dim-looking figure. The shot was followed by a shriek of pain and O'Neill tumbled to the floor. He was unable to speak, the bullet having passed through his jaw and had lodged in his mouth. An ambulance was quickly summoned and Surgeon Van Cott extricated the bullet without much difficulty. O'Neill, now thoroughly exhausted, was removed to the Long Island College Hospital, where he lay until arraigned in court. He pleaded not guilty to the accusation made against him, and was taken back to the hospital for further treatment. He will be arraigned for examination on the 13th instant.

POSTMASTERS.

The Trouble in Kentucky Over an Officer. The End Not Yet.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 11.—United States Marshals Fenton and Vest, arrived in the city with a posse of postmen and a posse for refusing to give his office to W. F. McCormick, whom President Cleveland appointed as his successor, two weeks ago. A number of the men came with Fenton, and went to the high court of Mr. Justice, he was not put in jail, but restricted at a hotel, guarded by an officer. The posse were brought before the United States commissioners, Fenton announced that the case had been adjourned, and he was willing to give up the office. The case was accordingly dismissed.

The affair was peculiar. A year ago Fenton had been indicted for several black doings, and two weeks ago McCormick came to take possession. Fenton objected. He claimed McCormick did not have the power to take possession of the office in the new state. McCormick first landed at what he termed "red tap." Fenton refused to give up his office. McCormick endeavored to stop the mail and have it sent to the old stand, but did not succeed. After the adjournment, he said Fenton will try to have McCormick's appointment revoked on the ground that his removal was for insufficient reasons. Fenton offered to compromise by advice of his attorney.

Malissa John Dred.

GALVESTON, Texas, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Matilda John Borenson, better known as Madeline Johns, was found dead in her room. The corpse was in a decomposed condition, death having occurred some time last Monday night after she had last been seen. Death was well known in southern Texas as the champion female shot with a target rifle, some of her performances despite her advanced age, fifty years, being remarkable evidence of her skill. She had been dying of old and infirm, and was in failing health and circumstances owing several frame buildings and a shooting gallery. Death was caused by general debility.

The family are dead.

DETROIT, Jan. 11.—A special to the News from the Michigan State Journal says that Dr. John White, with his wife and two children, were found in their house in that city with their throats cut in ear to ear. The neighbors have not seen any of the family around lately. It is believed they have been dead since last Sunday. There are evidences of a terrible struggle between husband and wife, and the suspicion is that Dr. White had become violently insane, committed the terrible tragedy and then suicided.
